Traffic Accidents Kill Man, 2 Children

Area Boys Struck By Cars

Galion Driver Dies At Toledo

Two Mansfield area children were dead today as a result of injuries suffered when struck by autos in front of their homes. A former Galion resident was killed yesterday in a traffic accident near Toledo.

Ronald Ray Bracken, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bracken of Mifflin, died at 2 a. m. today at General hospital. The boy was struck by a car about 1:20 p. m. yesterday as he ran across the street in front of his home.

Glenn Lee Farnwalt, three-year-old son of Leor Farnwalt, Sandusky street, Plymouth, died at 8:30 p. m. yesterday at Willard Municipal hospital. Witnesses to the accident said the boy darted into the path of an auto at 6 p. m. Saturday.

It was the second death in the Farnwalt family in three months. The child's mother died May 15.

James A. Porter, 61, native of Galion and former resident of that community, was killed early yesterday on Route 120, 10 miles south of Toledo when his car left the highway and crashed into a tree. Porter was returning to Detroit after visiting with his wife's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Bender, Fairview avenue, Galion.

SKULL FRACTURED

State highway patrolmen said the Bracken child suffered a fractured skull when struck by a car driven by Rev. Little Clyde Perry, 39, of Stockton, Calif. The accident occurred on U. S. Route 30 in Mifflin, as the child dashed across the street in front of his home. Rev. Perry told patrolmen he saw the boy, but was unable to stop before hitting him.

Ashland County Sheriff M. F. Rickenbrod and Deputy Sheriff Ralph Rogers said they would make a further investigation of the accident today. The driver of the car was released. Ashland county authorities said the child's body was thrown 20 feet by the impact and that the child never regained consciousness.

Born Nov. 13, 1942, the Bracken child was a member of St. Michael's Lutheran Sunday school.

Besides his parents, he is survived by one brother, Richard; one sister, Mary Helen, both at home; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Schag of Mansfield, R. D. 2; and by his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gregg Bracken of Mifflin.

Funeral services, in charge of the Byerly funeral home of Lucas, will be held at 3 p. m. Thursday at St. Michael's Lutheran church, Mifflin. Rev. James Lumadue will officiate and burial will be in Zehner cemetery. The body will be removed to the home of the grandparents in Mifflin tomorrow

Will Seize Docks Today

HONOLULU — (INS) — Actual government seizure of Hawaii's strikebound docks was scheduled for today under an order to be signed by territorial Governor Ingram F. Stainback.

Issuance of the decree will be followed immediately by a government drive to hire 1,500 stevedores to handle cargo at the seven island ports paralyzed for the past 100 days by a CIO longshoremen's work stoppage.

A decisive showdown was in prospect between the government and the union. Union leaders have announced their striking members voted unanimously not to take employment with the government.

The union has declared it will go into federal court to challenge the constitutionality of the territorial legislature's law authorizing government seizure of stevedoring facilities.

The union signed a contract yesterday with a newly formed stevedoring company which proposed to go into competition with the seven stevedoring concerns struck by the CIO longshoremen.

She Wasn't Too Anxious To Marry

COLUMBUS — (UP) — An 18-year-old baby sitter, who admitted stealing $230 worth of jewels and clothes for her trousseau, said today she "wasn't too anxious to get maried anyway."

Miss Louise Barnett and her fiancee, James Robert McCreery, 24, were arrested yesterday as they left the rooming house where they lived. Police found the stolen clothing and jewelry in McCreery's room.

Detectives said Miss Barnett admitted taking the things for her honeymoon from a home where she had been baby sitting.

"I wasn't too anxious to get married anyway," said Miss Barnett last night.

Voters OK Balloting Referendum

Signers Top Goal With 2,616 Names

Richland county has provided more than its quota of signatures for placing the question of an office - type ballot. State sponsors claimed today they would get enough signatures throughout the state to put their proposal before the people.

The county quota of signatures was 1,601. However, sponsors said today that a total of 2,616 signatures had been obtained.

The state's political leaders have maintained a strictly hands-off policy toward the proposal. Neither Republican State Chairman Ray Bliss nor Democratic Chairman Eugene Hanhart has gone on record as favoring or opposing the proposed ballot change.

In order to bring the amendment to a vote, the sponsors must get petitions signed by more than 301,000 voters in the state. The filing deadline is tomorrow night. A committee backing the move reported it expects to file more than 350,000 signatures.

On the office-type ballot, candidates are listed according to the offices they seek, with a party designation after each name.

In the present party-type ballot, candidates are listed under party headings.

Bucking Auto Ousts Driver, Goes On Spree

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Seventeen - year - old Ronald Baker of Cleveland was too stunned today to worry about where his next automobile was coming from.

While going around a corner on the city's east side last night, Baker said his accelerator stuck and at the same time his door flew open and he was thrown into the street.

From his prostrating position on Lake Shore boulevard, Baker watched his auto zigzag down the street, careen across lawns, strike two parked cars and dive over a cliff into Lake Erie.

The next time the youth saw his car it was laying on its back, wheels up, 50 feet from the lake shore.

BLACK-FACE IN MINIATURE — Mansfield kiddies who are members of the Children's Theater gave a minstrel performance last night at South Park that would do credit to experienced adult players, the audience agreed. The minstrels were presented in miniature with appropriate costumes. At top left are Buddy Houston and Suzanne Doppelt in "When You Were Sweet Sixteen." In the picture at top right, some old-fashioned melodrama provides Ronald Smith, villain: Rogert Thaler, hero; Judy Maxwell, heroine, and Myrna Stern, mother, with a chance to do dramatics. In the lower left picture, C. J. Kalbfleisch makes up Buddy Houston for his act. Lower right, Charles Gilbert, Molly Maxwell and Lee Cramer sing "Pretty Baby." (Story on Page 9.)

Wage Bill Splits GOP

WASHINGTON — (AP) — An unexpected split among Republicans over the 75-cent minimum wage added uncertainty today to the House debate on amending the wage-hour law.

Leaders on both the Democratic and Republican sides of the aisle agreed the race between a 65-cent or a 75-cent minimum is "very close." Voting probably will not get started before tomorrow.

Democrats on the House labor committee told reporters they believed they could hold the line on the 75-cent figure in the administration's compromise bill. They conceded, however, that they might have to drop to 65 cents in order to put the bill over.

"The House won't go lower than 65, though," said one.

Fair To Go On

COLUMBUS — (UP) — State health and agriculture officials said today they saw no reason at the present for postponing or cancelling the Ohio State fair because of danger of infantile paralysis.

Excuse Proves Flimsy

County Can Afford A Detention Home

By GEORGE COMINOS

Richland county can afford a juvenile detention home. "Lack of finances" is a flimsy excuse for keeping children who have made mistakes behind bars.

Here's how the county can pay for a detention home:

The county can lease, on a monthly rental basis, a suitable house. That is legally possible and that is financially possible.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said funds are available to pay a "reasonable rent."

The county has nothing set aside in the budget for a detention home. However, all that would be required is a transfer by the commissioners of money from other funds, from the courthouse and jail maintenance fund, for instance.

The county, until Jan. 1 of this year, has always had detention quarters. There never was any question about it because such quarters were considered "necessary." The bills were always paid.

And if there is no house available for a detention home, commissioners could build. In that case, the question would have to be put to a bond issue vote if the project were to cost over $20,000. Commissioners feel that such an expenditure is not warranted inasmuch as not enough children are ever detained at any one time.

Asked yesterday if the county could afford a detention home, Guy F. Stewart, chairman of the board, said "I have no comment to make."

The Richland County Bar association's building committee, meantime, has gone ahead in its efforts. Committee Chairman George W. Biddle said today that several possible sites have been suggested to the commissioners.

Biddle also blamed the public for "too much lethargy" in not writing and calling the commissioners to demand action to get children out from behind the bars of jail cells.

Notice was served on the county commissioners in June of last year informing them the quarters at the Salvation Army would not be available after Jan. 1. However, nothing was done.

Man Jailed In Beating

Woman Found Screaming In Car

A Mansfield man is being held in city jail in connection with the brutal beating of his wife late Sunday evening, police said today.

The man, William J. Williams, 46, of 110 West Fourth street, was arrested after Mrs. Blanche Williams, 48, was found screaming in a car parked at Fifth and Walnut streets.

State highway patrolmen setting out on patrol heard the woman screaming and notified city police. Answering the call, policemen found Mrs. Williams to be badly beaten and had her taken to Mansfield General hospital.

Her condition was reported today as "fair" by hospital attaches. They added that she suffered a broken back in the fray.

An investigation of the case is being made by Prosecuting Attorney Harold Lutz.

Williams is being held pending the outcome of his wife's injuries, Police Chief Jesse Schwab said today.

He added that Williams is being held as a "precautionary" measure.

Brenda Tells of 'Circuses'

Police Kibitz As Nude Actors Caper

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Brothel - keeper Brenda Allen's "blue room" circuses, in which bordello babes and pay-in customers frolicked en masse in the nude with cops kibitzing, are now a matter of public record.

A 2,141 - page transcript of hitherto secret grand jury testimony - on which former Police Chief C. B. Horrall and four other police officials were indicted — was released yesterday.

The Allen woman, a hard-faced, hippy, convicted call-house madame, described a typical "circus" at the request of one of the grand jurors.

"The lights I had were very, very blue," the transcript quoted her. "They were very low blue lights.

"You clear out the whole living room, I mean insofar as the center of the floor. You just have the chairs and couches back aainst the wall, and you have your sheets spread over the blankets which have been placed on top of the carpet, and the show proceeds from there."

She said there would be a group of girls and paying customers, "three or four men from the studios, whose names I won't mention because they're all professionals." All would be in the nude. Police officers, as guests of the house, would watch the show, she said, without paying. Other spectators paid.

Customers would pay from $20 to $500 for one trick, she said, adding that she split the fee with the girl.

"I considered payments to police as a necessary business expense," the Allen woman said.

Horall and Asst. Chief Joe Reed, Personnel Capt. Cecil Wisdom, and vice squad officers Lt. Rudy Wellpot and Sgt. E. V. Jackson were charged in perjury in the indictments. Wellpot and Jackson also were charged with bribery.

Brenda told the jury she paid Jackson $50 a week per girl for protection against vice squad raids.

Brenda's arrest was brought about by Policewoman Audre Davis, who posed as a prostitute.

Heat Relief In Sight

Heat and humidity were on the upgrade in Mansfield today, but some relief was in sight.

The city was among the "warmest" in the state yesterday when the mercury shot up to 91 degrees at 4 p. m. An official 84 degrees was recorded at noon today.

Area farmers and gardners reported crops ripening about 10 days ahead of schedule. Pickles and peppers, hampered by short seasons for the past two years, are reported abundant.

Forecasters said there will be a slight break in the hot, humid conditions currently enveloping the state by late Thursday or early Friday. He added that the change will not be great and will hold off the uncomfortably warm conditions only "for a day or two."

Temperatures are expected to climb into the mid-90's today and tomorrow and stay above 70 degrees each night.

Findlay topped the state with a 94-degree reading yesterday. Toledo was next with a 93-degrees. Youngstown recorded 92; Chesapeake, Columbus, Cleveland, Wilmington, Mansfield and Zanesville recorded highs of 91, and Cincinnati had a high of 90 degrees.

The weather bureau's five-day forecast follows:

"Mostly fair and continued warm with temperatures averaging three to five degrees above normal. Showers likely at end of week, totaling about one-fourth inch.

Fight Looms On Housing

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A new housing fight shaped up for the Senate today over a $4,510,000,000 bill designed to help persons of modest income build new homes through private financing.

Senator Cain (R-Wash) said the opponents will "do all we can" to eliminate certain features of the measure. Senator Sparkman (D-Ala), the author, told a reporter he thought there are very good prospects that the Senate will approve the bill as it now stands.

Cain disclosed that the opposition is not in full agreement as to what it doesn't like in the bill. He said three sections — cooperative housing, disposition of wartime permanent housing, and private loans to veterans — are under fire from various directions.

The cooperative feature calls for $500,000,000 in loans for cooperatives, with the provision that the president can authorize another $500,000,000 if he deems necessary. The loans would run for 50 years at 3 per cent interest. Sparkman said the money would be used as a revolving fund.

The bill also would make available $300,000,000 to the veterans administration for direct housing loans to GI's, provided private financing is not available, and the veterans are adjudged good credit risks.

18 Schoolboys Die In Crash

OPLADEN, Germany — (UP) — Eighteen German schoolboys were killed last night when an express train crashed into a bus bringing them home from summer camp.

Fourteen other children were seriously injured but expected to live. The accident was at a railway crossing eight miles north of Cologne.

Sixteen boys were killed instantly and two others died of their injuries during the night.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., — (UP) — A strike of 400 employes at the International Harvester company plant here, which had resulted in closing of the plant and idling 4,000 workers, was settled early today.

Weathers Senate Storm

Swift Approval Seen Assured

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The multi-billion dollar foreign recovery bill sped toward final congressional action today after a stormy passage through the Senate.

Lawmakers expected a Senate-House committee to reach quick agreement on the somewhat different versions the two branches have passed. The Senate approved its bill late yesterday by a top-heavy 63 to 7 vote.

Senators ended almost two weeks of wrangling to shake the measure free from the confusion which has blocked action on more than $20,000,000,000 in money bills in addition to other legislation marked "must" by the administration.

When the final showdown came, only six Republicans and one Democrat voted against the $5,797,724,000 measure.

The lone Democrat was Johnston of South Carolina. The Republican opponents were Capehart and Jenner of Indiana, Kem of Missouri, Langer of North Dakota, Malone of Nevada, and Williams of Delaware.

SEVEN DIFFERENCES

Here are the points in the Senate and House bills which must be compromised:

(1) Money amounts: the House voted $3,568,470,000 for ECA, to be spent in 10 and one-half months if necessary. The Senate voted $3,628,380,000—plus $150,000,000,000 loan authority — but spread the program over a 12-month period.

(2) German industrial plants: The Senate voted $25,000 to finance a review of dismantling plans for 365 German plants. A majority of senators feel that these plants should be kept in Germany to aid European recovery. The House had no such provision in its bill.

(3) Watchdog committee: The Senate voted $344,000 for a congressional committee staff to keep checking on foreign spending. The House had decided the committee had wound up its job in the first year of the Marshall plan.

(5) Chinese students: The Senate voted to earmark $4,000,000 in unused China-aid funds for helping some 4,000 Chinese students who are in this country. The students have been cut off from aid because of the civil war. The House bill did not contain this amendment.

(5) ECA publicity: The Senate voted to permit ECA Chief Paul Hoffman to use local currency funds as needed to publicize in Europe the work that is being done for Europe's recovery. This question was not raised in the House.

(6) Greece-Turkey aid: The Senate voted $45,000,000. The House voted $50,000,000.

(7) Army occupation costs: The Senate voted $900,000,000 for expenses in Germany, Austria, Japan and the Ryuku islands. The House had approved $925,000,000.

Back Arms Aid Limit

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A group of senators moved today to limit the transfer of over - age arms to western Europe. The senators say they are confused about when the tank is surplus and when it isn't.

A majority of the Senate foreign relations and armed services committees seemed to be lining up behind the plan. It would write into the administration's $1,450,000,000 foreign arms bill a $500,000,000 ceiling on surplus military supplies that might be shipped abroad.

Their confusion arose from a disclosure by Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) that military leaders had told China two months ago there was no surplus equipment but now say supplies that originally cost $450,000,000 are available for North Atlantic treaty signers.

Secretary of Defense Johnson, the day's chief witness before the combined Senate committees was expected to be asked for an explanation. The joint chiefs of staff, scheduled to go before the committees tomorrow, also will be asked about the matter.

Secretary of State Acheson couldn't supply an answer yesterday, despite the fact members said he had been tossed the same inquiry in closed sessions last week. Acheson said the military men would have to clarify this seemingly contradictory situation.

Goin' Swimmin' With Women Turns Out To Be Just Big Totin' Task

NEW YORK—When you grow from a boy into a man you are shortchanged in many ways.

You trade the simple life for the complicated life. And one of the things you trade is the "ole swimming hole" for all.

When I was a boy and summered in the country, going swimming was no problem. We just peeled off our overalls behind a bush, and waded into the stream or pool, bare as a bluejay and happy as a hound dog.

The only thing to fear was stepping on a crawdad's claw or meeting up with a water snake. And, of course, you had to keep an eye on the bush behind which lay your overalls. If you didn't some rural cousin would sneak out, tie them in knots and soak them in the stream.

When the evening train passed by on the way to Kansas city, most of the kids ducked down to their necks in the water. But there was always one who climbed up on the grass and paraded back and fourth in view of the passengers.

In those faraway days such a boy wasn't called a "showoff." The Missouri phrase was "Look at the bank strutter." And anybody, man or boy, who tried to keep in the public eye was known as "the bank strutter." It was a popular term among politicians.

Going home from the "ole swimming hole" a boy might get a thorn in his foot. But, all in all, his dunking had been as artless and easy as the first dive by Adam into the Garden of Eden's pool.

Co-educational swimming has ruined all that. After a man marries, he finds that going to the beach is a ritual and an industry.

I spent a weekend at the beach recently with Frances. She packed two heavy suitcases. After lugging them for three hours to reach the sea, via subway, train, taxi and ferry, I figured the suitcases must have equipment to protect us against any emergency except frostbite and being hit by lightning. They did.

In the suitcases were two bathrobes, enough towels to dry a battalion of porpoises, two pairs of slippers, sunglasses, four bathing suits, socks, slacks, shirts, dresses, fountain pens, pins, combs, books, magazines, vitamin pills and an unanswered letter from a friend in Montana. There also was a battery of bottles loaded with lotions and creams sufficient to grease Shirley May France for a swim from Dover to Boston.

"I don't want you to get sunburned," explained Frances.

'Boy Meets Girl' Story Turns Up With Odd Twist Concerning Trust

DELLA DID NOT PURSUE too exemplary a life. Detective Sergeant Mike Petts knew all about that. But he fell in love with Della, as men will, no matter what they know.

Mike told her how he felt toward her. And Della said it went double, she'd go through flame gasoline for him.

He was a bachelor, lived with his mother.

He told her he meant marriage. She nodded—that was exactly what she had in her mind, even in her dreams.

"I can't take on a wife right now," he told her. "It may be that way for a couple of years."

She sighed, but said she'd wait.

"And I'll see you only on Thursdays, in the evening. That's my night off. Other times I'll be working or on call.

"The understanding will be that you won't see any other man, and you won't go flirting or dancing or drinking or meeting any of your old bunch—not one. You'll stay home. You can go to a movie now and then. That's all."

She nodded. That would be all.

You'll live with the aunt you told me about. You say you can pay your own way by baby-sitting. That's what I'll expect you to do."

"I can make out that way."

"You'll walk the absolute chalk-line. We haven't many secrets between us right now, I believe. I'm willing to wash out everything you've done up to now. I'll agree to never bring up the past. But from now, no slip, in sidestep. Life for us begins tonight. It will be what you make it, Della. Make it right."

"You can count on me, Mike."

Della moved in with her relatives, in a one-and-a-half-story cottage. She advertised for babysitting work. She went to a picture show now and then.

Every Thursday, Mike came over. He usually took her out, to a restaurant for dinner, sometimes to a chop suey place, occasionally to an economical side-street cafe that had a three-piece band and a dingy dance-floor, where they could step a few numbers.

During all the months, Mike never asked her what she did when he wasn't around. He never voiced any suspicions. He never brought up her former life. He never discussed such things, even about others, when he dropped brief mention of his work, which brought him into contact with unsavory characters.

He allowed her to have a cocktail when they went out — one. He wanted her to look pretty, didn't object to some make-up, but had induced her to discard her conspicuous clothes and to dress modestly.

They discussed their forthcoming marriage, made plans, decided on a four-room flat somewhere near his station.

Della wondered why Mike never grilled her. He was supposed to be a keen and persistent sleuth. He had laid down rigid rules for her conduct. Yet he never threw questions at her.

Surely, his daily contacts were not calculated to inspire him with faith in people, certainly not in their morals, surely not in their promises.

Yet Mike never quizzed, let alone badgered, the girl he had pledged to make his wife, about whose behavior up to the day he offered to marry her he had no illusions whatsoever. He had met her on a midnight raid.

Della pondered often about that. She was happy, but mystified.

And she was still that way when he set the wedding-date—two years to the day after he told her he would marry her.

As Mrs. Mike Petts, the bride of a substantial man, a good, kind man, Della was radiant.

She poured out her thanksgiving to Mike.

"And the most remarkable thing," she said, "was that, with all you knew, you believed in me. You never ragged me with jealous foolishness. I was on the dead level with you. I never looked right nor left — just dead straight center. You must have felt that, dear."

"Not quite," he replied. "Della, I'll come clean with you.

"For two years — 730 days — I had you watched, trailed, covered. The dicks in my station took turns — each on his night off. I can give you a written report on everything you did, everyone you saw, almost every thought that passed through your head in that time."

"Oh, Mike," she gasped, "I didn't know you loved me THAT much!"

State Raps County For Board Lack

Wants 'Visiting Group' Set Up

Richland county again has been reprimanded by the state for having no board of county visitors, but Probate Judge Stuart H. Cramer said today he wouldn't name one unless enough persons indicate to him they would serve on it.

The board of six members is under the direction of the probate judge who appoints the members. The members visit the city and county jails and other institutions to check on conditions.

Absence of a board here since 1943 was cited by State Examiner A. S. Vail as a violation of a state law. The examiner's report, covering county transactions from April 1, 1946, to Nov. 15, 1947, has been submitted to county officials.

Cited in the report was a section of the general code which says a county shall have such a board "for the inspection of all charitable and correctional institutions supported in whole or in part from county or municipal funds."

The law specifies that of the six members no more than three shall be of the same political party. Three members shall be women.

Judge Cramer called the visiting board law "obsolete." "I see no reason for a board. We all know what condition the jails are in," he said.

He said the last board was not very active and that it was difficult to get anybody to serve. He added that most counties don't have such a board.

Grange Plans Fete Thursday

Plans for a wiener and corn roast for members of Madison Grange Thursday at the Little Washington school were being completed today by committee members, headed by Max McFarland.

Others are Horace Uhl and Glen Cornell. The outing is for all Madison Grange members and their families. Each family is to furnish its own wieners and buns and table service. The rest of the menu will be provided by the committee.

In the orange chiffon cake contest held at the recent meeting in Lucas, Mrs. Horace Uhl, Mrs. Cornell, and Mrs. John McPhem were the winners. They will compete in the Pomona Grange contest. Judges for this contest were Miss Ruth Stroup and Mrs. Sanford Weaver of Shelby.

Lester McFarland, chairman, Lavergne Lutz, John McPhem, Mrs Gay Mowers and Mrs. Robert Hammett comprise the committee planning the annual fall festival to be held in September.

In addition to the various dashes there will be novelty races and field events such as the baseball throw. There will be four classes in both the boys and girls divisions. The four age brackets are the 8-10-year-old class, 10-11 class, 12 - 13 class, and 14-to-16-year-old class.

City's Amvets Eye Miniature Minstrels

By NITA BRANSON

The Miniature Minstrels, presented by the Children's Theater at South Park last night, were so good the Amvets want to incorporate part of the routine in the annual minstrel show here. The minstrels will be repeated tonight and Wednesday night.

Amvet members who saw the presentation expressed that wish to Hal McCuen, director, after last night's performance. General audience reaction was as favorable as that of the Amvets, McCuen said. The children definitely "hit the jackpot" according to remarks heard following the show.

All dance routines were supervised by Ethyl Battin with George Ireland at the piano. Production assistants were Mary Jo Hunter, Barbara Shivley, Ann Rich and Lynne Hartley. George Porterfield was technical director and also assisted with the direction of the melodrama "The Villain Still Pursued Her", one of the hits of the show.

This number was done by Myrna Stern as the mother; Judy Maxwell, as the daughter; Ronald Smith, the villain, and Roger Thaler, hero.

Another big hit was the routine done by Lee Cramer in imitation of Al Jolson, while Jolson's record, "Rock-a-bye Your Baby with a Dixie Melody" was being played That, according to McCuen, "stopped the show."

One of the best offerings was "Can't You Hear Me Calling, Caroline" with the entire company singing and dancing; Douglas Catanzariti and his banjo also provided a hit as did "Carolina in the Morning" with Bobby Knackstadt, Carol Robnolte, Janeen Houston and Buddy Houston.

"Pretty Baby", acted by Lee Cramer, Molly Maxwell and Charles Gilbert, received enthusiastic applause.

Quits Case Work Post

Probate Judge Stuart H. Cramer today accepted the resignation of Katherine McMichael as case work supervisor for the Richland county Department of Public Welfare, effective Sept. 15, 1950.

He appointed Mrs. Ola Little, case worker, to take her place and appointed Miss Esther Cappadonna, stenographer, to the position of case worker, taking Mrs. Little's place. The appointments are subject to approval by the county commissioners, but they have indicated they will approve the appointments, Judge Cramer said.

Judge Cramer is administrator for the Aid to Dependent Children program while the commissioners are administrators of the Aid to the Blind program. Both programs are handled by the welfare department.

At the same time, Judge Cramer accepted a request for a year's leave of absence, permitting Mrs. McMichael to retain her civil service status until the effective date of the resignation. The leave of absence takes effect this Sept. 15.

Mrs. McMichael who has been employed in the department since it was started in 1936, said she has taken a position with the Lutheran Children's Aid society in Cleveland.

HOME AGAIN—

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Copeland have just returned from the Thousand Islands where they enjoyed a 10-day vacation on one of the many privately-owned vacation spots in St. Lawrence river. Copeland called the vacation "ideal" and soaked up a lot of history while there. From the island of a friend where he and Mrs. Copeland visited, they could see the famed Boldte castle on a nearby island, recently written up in the "Saturday Evening Post". The weather was cool, Copeland said and coming back to Mansfield's heat and humidity was not too alluring.

Examiner Hits At M'Farland

Official's Firm Gets Business

County insurance premium payments totaling $1,182 to Holibaugh - Wolfe, Inc., were termed illegal by the state because Earl A. McFarland, president of the firm, is a county official. The action was criticized in an examiner's report which had been submitted to county officials today.

While the money was not ordered returned, State Examiner A. S. Vail called the payments in violation of the state law which makes it illegal for a public official to profit by the business of the subdivision he serves.

The payments covered fire insurance on the county tuberculosis sanatorium buildings, contents and equipment during February and March, 1947.

The county board of commissioners which authorized the payments was Republican-controlled at the time. McFarland is a Republican member of the election board.

Examiner Vail, whose audit covered the period from April 1, 1946, to Nov. 15, 1947, returned findings amounting to $14,913. Most of the amount has been paid, however, since officials who were at fault were notified before the complete report was made, the examiner said.

The examiner found:

The sum of $2,500 was due Richland county from Sharon township for highway work.

That $4,276 in municipal court fines went into the county's general fund when it should have been placed in the county law library fund.

That $448.50 in village mayors' court fines, instead of being put in the county's general fund should have gone into the auto license and gasoline tax fund.

That that trustees of the law library did not have authority to grant an increase to the law librarian, since only the common pleas judge can do that. The increase amounted to $520 for the period covered by the audit.

That Richland county should collect $1,314 from the Law Library association and $393 from the City of Mansfield.

The report said the county board of revision had held few meetings during the period and that no minutes were kept as required by law.

The board is made up of the chairman of the county commissioners, the auditor and the treasurer.

Mangrum Gets Big Golf Lead In 'Tam' Meet

CHICAGO — (AP) — Lloyd Mangrum went after the $3,333 top Tam O'Shanter All-American golf prize today with a four - stroke lead over the field.

Most of promoter Geroge S. May's betting money was on Mangrum in today's final round, and it looked as if he had the jackpot.

Mangrum blazed through the humid 95 degree heat and some 3,000 followers for a 35-33—70 third round yesterday and a three - quarters mark of 204, twelve strokes under par.

Sam Snead, the year's leading money winner with $23,560, faded to a two-over-par 74 for a total 209 after being only one stroke behind Mangrum at the halfway mark.

In the contender's spot behind Mangrum were big Clayt Heafner with a 69, strapping Bill Nary of Los Angeles with 67, and Fred Haas jr., of New Orleans, former national collegiate champion, who fashioned 69. All had a three-round tally of 208.

Tied with Snead at 209 were Johnny Palmer with a third round 67, and Herman Barron, 1946 Tam champion, with a par 72.

In the all-American women's open field, Louise Suggs, the 115-pound pro from Carrollton, Ga., had a five stroke lead with a 54-hole 227. She added a one-over-par 77 yesterday. Babe Zaharias, the defending champion, made her bid with a 74 but landed in the 232 bracket with another pro, Betty Jameson, who shot a third round 81.

In the all-American amateur field the early leader, 29-year-old Julius Boros of west Hartford, Conn., flopped into co-leadership with John Wagner of Chicago. Boros skidded to a six-over-par 78 yesterday for a 54-hole total of 214. Wagner carded a 70.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Bill Veeck may sell his Cleveland Indians some day, but not just yet and not at any "insufficient" price.

Bruce Gives Double Talk In England

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK —(AP)—Ezzard Charles, heavyweight champion in 47 of 48 states, will try to win over a skeptical New York in his first NBA title defense tomorrow night against battle-scarred Gus Lesnevich at Yankee stadium.

This is the big one for the lean Negro from Cincinnati, who hasn't been overly impressive in his showing here and who still is denied recognition by Col. Edward Eagan and his New York Athletic Commission.

An emphatic triumph over the former light heavyweight titleholder from Cliffside Park, N. J., might change some minds.

While the principals of the heavyweight title clash were going through final rehearsals, the boys in the front offices were trying to grab some clarity from Bruce Woodcock's double talk in England.

The British heavyweight champion, who had been scheduled to meet Lee Savold in London next month for the British version of the world heavyweight title, gave out conflicting statements that he might retire and that he wouldn't.

He at first said that he was seriously thinking about "packing in the game." Later he was quoted as saying he would go on with Savold fight if the doctor said it was okay.

DAMPER ON PLANS

His sudden about-face put a temporary damper on plans to match the winner of tomorrow night's fight at the stadium with Savold for the undisputed world championship.

This even brought a concession from Colonel Eagan, who said: "If Woodcock retires, the commission will consider the winner of the Charles-Lesvenich match as one of the contestants for the world heavyweight title against Lee Savold or some other outstanding contender approved by this commission. The winner of that contest will be declared the heavyweight champion of the world."

Matchmaker Al Weill indicated that Savold against the Charles-Lesnevich winner might be put on in Madison Square Garden in the late fall.

Of course, a Lesnevich victory over favored Charles would change everything. Charles has a clause in his contract calling for a return with Gus in case he should lose his NBA-recognized title.

Charles is a 5-to-18 favorite over battle-scarred Gus, the former light heavyweight champ. Lesnevich is bordering on 35. He has been fighting for pay since 1934 and has been stopped three times by Freddie Steele, Lee Oma and Woodcock.

Muffin-faced Gus will break camp at Summit, N. J., today and return to his Cliffside, N. J., home until the weigh-in, scheduled for noon Wednesday at the Garden. Gus expects to hit about 182 pounds.

The "champ" boxed four rounds yesterday at Pompton Lakes, N. J. He weighed 180 when he finished and expects to carry that weight into the ring.

'Old' Card Player Rips Cincy With Two Homers

By JOE REICHLER, Associated Press Sports Writer

Enos (Country) Slaughter, the St. Louis Cardinals' "ball player's ball player," is a living proof that baseball experts are a funny race.

In pre-season polls, the majority of scribes ignored St. Louis as a pennant threat because the Cards "were too old." Thus, without saying so, they pointed the finger at Slaughter, who at 33, was the oldest regular on the club.

Today, these same experts predict that the Cards will win the National league flag. Why? Because of the presence of this same Enos Slaughter.

He's missed only four games although at various stages of the race, he's been plagued by a bad back, sore legs, a stiff neck, a bruised thigh and a slight shoulder separation.

Slaughter's current batting average of .331 is exceeded only by Jackie Robinson's .364.

Enos enjoyed one of his biggest "days" last night when he walloped two home runs and drove in six runs to lead the Cards to a 9-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

The Redbirds needed the triumph to maintain their first place tie with Brooklyn, as the Dodgers already had nipped the New York Giants, 2-1. The two contenders started the evening's activities deadlocked for the lead. Those were the only games played in the majors.

Slaughter's one-man foray enabled Howie Pollet to register his 15th victory. The Cards could get only five safeties off loser Kent Peterson and three successors, but took advantage of seven bases on balls.

4 STRAIGHT WALKS

Four straight walks in the fourth forced in a Cardinal run across and left the bases loaded. Country promptly unloaded them with his second four-bagger of the game and 10th of the season. Slaughter got his first homer in the third with Nippy Jones aboard.

Big Don Newcombe pitched one of his best games of the year in subduing the Giants with four hits, for his 11th victory.

Jackie Robinson was the big gun for the Dodgers. He slashed his 13th homer in the second and set the stage for the winning run in the eighth with a single that sent Carl Furillo to third. With the bases loaded and two out, loser Dave Koslo walked pinch-hitter Bruce Edwards to force Furillo over the plate.

Old Timers Win Fifth Loop Game

Old Timers and Westinghouse featured competition last night in Mansfield city softball leagues.

The Old Timers won their fifth straight in the second round of the Recreation "sloball" league while Westinghouse chalked up its seventh in a row in the Girls' loop.

The Old Timers built up an early lead to outlast Leedy Electric, 10 to 7. The winners led 8-2 at the conclusion of four innings. Both teams clouted 14 hits with Pitcher George McIntire and Sunnucks, both of Old Timers, leading with three apiece. McIntire had two doubles while Sunnucks clouted a homer and double.

In the other Recreation game, Martin Steel defeated Coffee Shop, 5 to 4, for its first second round win. The Steelers had copped the first round title. Cornell of Coffee Shop had the only home run.

Pitcher Schaefer gave Westinghouse a 6-to-0 victory over Printzess. She allowed only two, fanned nine and did not issue a free ticket to first base. Betty Hugel had a pair of singles to lead the five-hit Westie attack.

Prospect Park smashed North Lake Park in the other Girls' game, 18 to 2. Dunham and Potter of Prospect and Miller of North Lake hit home runs.

City Title At Stake In Autos-Taverns Tilt

Mansfield's 1949 city baseball champion will be crowned tomorrow evening when Penn Auto-Sporting Goods and T. & E. Tavern meet at Blue Goose park.

The game, scheduled for 5:30 p. m., will be the "rubber" of the series, since each has defeated the other once previously. T. & E. has twice defeated the Hawks, giving tonight's winner the right to claim the city title.

T. and E. won the first fame of the series, 8-6, but Penn Auto came back to win, 6-1, behind Shelly Swank. Swank will do the pitching again tomorrow and will likely be opposed by Pete Campbell, the red-haired Gorman-Rupp softballer.

Pete pitched for Ohio Wesleyan -University and has only recently joined the Tavern team. He will play the outfield if not pitching.

T. & E. leads the second-half Richland County league race with two victories and no defeats while the Autos have won 12 of 19, including their last five starts.

Church Games Feature Play In City Ball

Completion of the first set of games in the Church league softball tournament will highlight city play tonight. Four Square Gospel will meet Park Avenue Baptist at Johns while First Methodist and First Congregational tangle at Mansfield Tire field. Both start at 6:15 p. m.

Semi-finals of the tournament will be played Thursday with the Four Square - Baptist winner meeting First Presbyterian and the Methodist - Congregational winner facing St. Matthews.

In first round games last week St. Matthews eliminated First Christian, 8-2, and First Presbyterian took out United Brethren, 10-7.

One National league and two Girls games will round out the day's program. D and M Cigar store and 164th Fighter Squadron will meet in the National league tilt at Liberty park.

In the Girls loop, Lumbermens and Ohio Sport Center play at Johns park while Spudnuts and Yunckers battle at John Todd.

Loop To Organize

The Richland Ladies bowling league will be organized for the 1948-49 season at a meeting tomorrow at 8 p. m. at the Richland alleys, Billie Cleckner announced today. All bowlers are urged to attend.

Entry Roster Is Light For 'Am' Best-Ball

Entries for next Sunday's city best-ball tournament continued to come in slow today as the golfers apparently are waiting until just before deadline. Blanks must be in the mail by midnight Wednesday and are available at all courses.

Seven more teams joined up yesterday bringing the total to 21 teams and 42 individuals. About 80 teams are expected.

The latest batch of entries includes: Nick Linster and Frank Cipris, Cliff Knarr and Jerry Walton, Frank Vild and Harry Welker, Ed Hall and Don Hart, Ed Betz and Don Milton, Fred Huntsman jr., and J. B. Moke, and Yona Scadova and Red Keck.

The entrants will be classified by Irish McGee and Fred Huntsman at the meeting of the golf committee Thursday night. Starting times will be announced in the News-Journal Saturday. Class AA and A will play at Possum Run while B and C play Coolridge.

First two entries for the City Medal play tournament of Aug. 21 and 28 were also received today. They were from Frank Cipris and Gib Oswalt.

Big Trot Race Set Wednesday

GOSHEN, N. Y. — (UP) — Teh second largest field and the second largest purse in Hambletonian history was in Prospect today as the owners of 18 three-year-old trotters prepared to enter their horses for the 24th running of harness racing's greatest classic at Good Time park tomorrow.

66 Netters Slated For City Joust

A record field in the annual News - Journal city tennis tournament was a certainty today as 32 more net players submitted entries for the tourney which opens Saturday at the Woodland club.

The field now numbers 66 players with many more expected before the entry dealine tomorrow at midnight. Pairings and starting times will be announced in Friday's News - Journal.

Yesterday's heavy influx of entries included three more former champions. Watty Slabaugh and Ruhland Isaly entered the men's singles and men's doubles while Tommy Bloor, former junior king, got into the men's singles and doubles with Bob Meese. Meese also entered the singles.

There is no entry fee for the tourney but players must wear tennis shoes on the three Woodland courts where all matches will be played.

Favored Ashland Indians Make Debut In Meet

Mansfield 9's Win Three Last Night

By CHARLEY STINE

Mansfield fans will get their first look at the vaunted Ashland Indians and their prize hurler, Ollie Barker, as the favored team makes its debut in district softball tournament play tonight.

The Indians, last team to play their first game, will meet Mansfield Westinghouse in the final of tonight's three-game program at Gorman-Rupp field. Sid's Cleaners of Mt. Gilead will meet Marion Smitty's All-Stars in the 7:15 opener while Farm Tools and Ideal Electric both of Mansfield tangle in the second game.

Ashland was reinstated as the tournament favorite yesterday with the ruling by Ohio Commissioner Nick Barack that Barker is elegible for tournament play. A protest had been launched by Gorman-Rupp that Barker had not been a resident of Ashland since the required April 1.

However, the Indians submitted signed statements from Barker and from his landlord in Ashland in February. A return trip to Florida, where he had spent the past two years, was termed as "clearing up business."

Even if the Indians eliminate Westinghouse tonight, Mansfield will have five of the eight positions in the quarter-finals. That was assured after Mansfield teams won all three games on last night's program.

Todd's Jewelry came from behind in the seventh inning to beat Shelby Owls, 3-2, VFW edged Office Cafe, 1-0, and Sons of Herman eliminated Bud's Sports of Upper Sandusky, 5-2.

The first and second games were both dramatic affairs while the last was more of the knockdown drag-out variety.

Todd's appeared beaten in its game with Shelby when it trailed 2-0 with one man out in the bottom of the seventh and no one on base. Suddenly, however, Shelby went to pieces.

Joe Smollen singled and Ken Krupp slapped an easy grounder which rolled through third baseman Vern Wrightsman untouched for a base hit. Paul Sheeks beat out a hit to Ray Fought on second and Joe Smollen romped home as Fought made a wild throw to first base. A passed ball let Krupp score with the tying run and after Ed Smollen had flied out, young Paul Smollen banged the game-winning run to right field.

HUNT FANS 14

The second game was a little different type of drama as the principal concern seemed to be how many men VFW Pitcher Ronnie Hunt would strike out. He fanned 14 and allowed only one hit, to duplicate the pitching feat of Todd's Dale McKinley of last Friday.

Hunt had the edge in one respect—he did not walk a single batter. Sheldon Perrine was the only man to reach base and he did it twice. He led off the game with a blooping single to right field and then was hit by a pitched ball in the sixth. Hunt, who had fanned ten in last Friday's win over Ashland Police, got the first eleven men out himself as he struck out six, threw two out on grounders and then struck out three more.

Quarter-final play will start tomorrow with Gorman-Rupp meeting Jeromesville at 8 p. m. and Todd's Jewelry playing VFW at 9:30. Thursday, Sons of Herman meets the winner of tonight's first game and Indians - Westinghouse winner meets the Farm Tools-Ideal winner.

Shirley May Plans Swim This Week

DOVER, Eng. —(INS)— Shirley May France leaves for France this week to attempt her channel swim on the first favorable day.

Teh 16 - year - old Somerset, Mass., high school girl, has not set a definite date for the attempt, her father said yesterday, because the swim "depends on a number of factors."

Shirley May took a two-and-one-half hour practice swim yesterday in channel waters instead of her scheduled six-hour session because of strong tides.

Tribe Goes Up Against St. Louis 9

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Lou Boudreau, who got to be a big league baseball manager as a kid of 24 and became one of the game's greatest shortstops and clutch hitters, get a thanks tonight after 10 years in the big time.

It was 10 years ago last Sunday that Lou, a greenhorn up from Buffalo, slipped into a Cleveland uniform. So tonight—before a game with the Browns—he will receive these honors he won last year while piloting the Indians to the world championship:

The American league's most valuable player award, presented by the Baseball Writers' Association of America, and a scroll from Sporting News, baseball weekly which named him player of the year.

By ordinary standards, Boudreau shouldn't have been a ball player. He has weak ankles, small hands and an awkward batting stance. And he runs like molasses.

So what?

In 1944 he led the American league in batting with .327 and last year had a whopping .355. His lifetime average with the Indians is a few points short of the revered .300.

Afield he topped American league shortstops for eight seasons and set a record of .982 in 1947.

When he finishes this season he will establish a longevite record for Cleveland managers. His eight years will beat Tris Speaker's mark by a half-year.

RUGGED DAYS

But these are pretty rugged days for Boudreau. His team tonight opens a two game series with the Browns and the pennant looks a long way off.

One thing possibly favors the Tribe—the schedule.

The Indians play 36 of their 51 remaining games with second division clubs; the Yankees have 23 of 52; and the Red Sox, now a game behind second place Cleveland, 28 of 51.

In tonight's game, Bob Feller will have a chance again to prove he can be counted on to help the Tribe. He has been doing well lately, too.

On the last eastern trip, he allowed no runs in a nine-inning relief assignment in Boston.

Offensive Teams Chosen For Schoolboy Grid Tilt

MASSILLON — Tentative offensive lineups were set today as the state's high school all-stars ground through two more practice sessions in preparation for their North-South struggle Saturday night in Massillon.

Coach Ralph Ness of North also picked a defensive team but failed to include Mansfield's all-state Paul "Pinkie" Ferguson in either starting combination. Ferguson will likely be used as second-string offensive quarterback.

Both Ness and co-coaches Glenn Ellison and Ray Schick of the South, announced that they would basically stick to the two-platoon system. Several choices, like Jim (Boxcar) Bailey of Hamilton will see action on both the offense and defensive units.

Ness, head coach at Lakewood, listed his starting offensive lineup as follows:

Dick Davidson, Alliance, and Frank McPhee, Youngstown Chaney, ends; Dick Olson, Lorain, and Nick O'Brovac, Canton McKinley, tackles; Mike Takacs, Massillon, and Dave Beuschen, Toledo Waite, guards, and Bill Armstrong, Lakewood, center.

Backs chosen by the North mentor were Bob Burson, Lakewood, quarterback, John Colceri, Canton McKinley, left halfback; Bernie Skvarka, Struthers, right halfback, and Chet Grob, Lakewood, fullback.

Ellison, the Middletown skipper, and Schick of Newark nominated their offensive team as:

Ends: Bob Grimes, Middletown, and Ora Day, Hamilton; tackles: Charles Weeks, Columbus West, and Bob Kane, Newark; guards: Don Thomas, Springfield, and Don Grammer, Dayton; center: Jim Gross, Middletown; quarterback: Curt Jones, Middletown; halfbacks: Jim Bailey, Hamilton, Babs Calhoun, Middletown, or Jack Gordon, Hamilton; fullback: Robert Koepnick, Dayton Chaminade.

The North's defensive team as announced by Ness:

Linemen—Make Takacs, Massillon; Dick Olson, Lorain; George Antoine, Lakewood; Gregory Harouvis, Toledo Waite; and Nick Obrovac, Canton McKinley.

Line Backers—John Colceri, Canton McKinley; Tom Mahin, Youngstown Wilson; John Hlay, Niles, and Dick Davidson, Alliance.

Safety — Bob Burson, Lakewood, and Chet Grob, Lakewood.

RUBBER CONTEST

This is the "rubber contest." The South took the 1946 opener, the 1947 game ended in a deadlock, and the North won a year ago. Ralph Neff of Lakewood is head coach of Northerners, assisted by Herman (Bup) Rearick of Canton McKinley, James Scullion of Lakewood, and Gene Wolansky of Cleveland South. Glenn Ellison of Middletown and Ray Schick of Newark are co-coaches of the Rebels, aided by Mack Pemberton of Columbus West and Denver Wood of Cambridge.

Mansfielders wanting to see Saturday's game may reserve tickets by writing Russell Zepp at Washington High school, Massillon. These tickets may be picked up at the box office Saturday. Reserve seats sell for $1.50 each. Six thousand general admission tickets will go on sale the night of the game.

Light Ticket Sale For Bout

NEW YORK — (UP) — James D. Norris, president of the International Boxing club, admitted today that advance sales totalled only $40,000 for tomorrow night's heavyweight title fight between Ezzard Charles and Gus Lesnevich; but he expressed confidence that the gate would approximate $100,000.

"The fans know there'll be plenty of seats at Yankee Stadium tomorrow night," he explained. "So they've been in no hurry to buy tickets. We expect a big sale tomorrow and tomorrow night. It will be a last-minute sale like the Philadelphia promoters had last month for the Ray Robinson-Kid Gavilan fight that drew $177,000."

The Robinson — Gavilan welterweight title fight at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium attracted 27,800 fans. Morris expected about 25,000.

Choice of Sex Seen As Possible

Method Bared For Parents

DURHAM, N. C — (UP) — Scientific evidence that a husband and wife may be able to choose between having a boy or a girl baby has been found in the Duke university department of surgery.

The choice has nothing to do with surgery, and is something everyone can try without annoyance. The choice is not certain, but in the Duke studies the percentage is slightly over 25 in favor of having the sex you want.

A difficult part of the trick is for a woman to know for sure her fertile period, which is a matter of two or three days only, once a month.

In the Duke studies, conceptions in the early part of the fertile period favor female births. Conceptions late in the period seem to show a preponderance of males.

The Duke studies were made by doctors Deryl Hart and James D. Moody, and are reported in the annuals of surgery, a Philadelphia medical publication.

The idea comes from a number of facts collected by medical scientists in the last decade. One is the surprising results of 9,489 artificial inseminations. The usual ratio in human sex is 105 males to 100 females. But in these inseminations there were 5,676 males. This, says the annals article, is a 48 per cent increase in males over the theoretically expected number.

In artificial insemination, fairly exact knowledge of the fertile period is essential. Whether this series might have been due to luck, Drs. Hart and Moody do not say. They cite it as a possible result of timing. The series was reported by Doctors Francis F. Seymour and Alfred Koerner in the Journal of the American Medical association.

The Duke evidence is both animal and human. Rats were bred with the timing carefully regulated. It is easier to know a rat's fertile period. The normal ratio of male rats was increased by late insemination by percentages varying from 149 to 255. At the most, more than twice as many males as females were born.

The human studies were made on 65,000 pairs of dizygotic twins, which means twins from separate ova. These twins can be either two girls, two boys or a boy and a girl. Under the usual sex ratios of human beings, there would be about as many boys as girls among these twins.

But the normal ratio didn't work. In 50 per cent of these twinnings, both babies were the same sex. This seems to bear out the idea that more early conceptions are female, and more late are male.

The Duke doctors say there are several possible explanations. They make the guess that the reason is in the male sperm.

It is known that in humans there are two types of male sperm. And it also is known that one type fertilizing an ovum will result in a boy baby, while the other type produces a girl. On this basis alone the division between boys and girls should be about fifty-fifty, which is the fact.

The Duke doctors say it is easiest to attribute the apparent time difference in sex to differences in the ability of the two kinds of sperm to move rapidly, differences in their lengths of life and differences in their aggressiveness.

U. S. Saving Jap Lives

TOKYO — (UP) — Modern hygienic methods and preventive medicine introduced by American occupation officials have saved more Japanese lives in the past two and one-half years than the Japanese army and navy lost during the war, allied public health officials said today.

Brig. Gen. Crawford F. Sams, Chief of the Public Health and yearly death rate has dropped to slightly above 10 per 1,000. The figure is comparable to that of the most advanced western countries.

Before the war, Japan's normal civilian death rate averaged 17 per 1,000 a year.

Sams said that since January 1947, the occupation health program has saved 1,600,000 apanese lives. Japan lost 1,555,000 soldiers and sailors between

Bridge, Closed 10 Months, Will Be Re-Opened Next Week End

Williams avenue bridge, which has been closed for nearly 10 months is scheduled to be open to traffic this week end. Street Superintendent E. W. Davis said today.

The bridge, which crosses Ritter's run a block west of South Main street, was completely overhauled by the street department.

New steel stringers were built and the complete structure was painted, Davis said.

Pearl Harbor and V-day.

Allied health officers have battled smallpox, dysentery, typhoid, typhus, venereal disease and tuberculosis, Sams said. In addition, 48,000,000 persons have been dusted with DDT and 57,000,000 have been inoculated with anti-typhus vaccine. The incidence of diptheria has been reduced 83 per cent.

Street department workers today started laying the wooden flooring, he added.

Early next week street department workers will install a new floor in the Newman street bridge, which crosses the Rocky Fork between Fifth and Orange streets.

Judge Rules Trixie Owes No Tax On Her $1,000 Inheritance

WOOSTER — (UP) — Trixie, a fox terrier, owes the state of Ohio nothing, a judge ruled today.

Trixie, 8, came into a $1,000 legacy in the will of her former owner, George Searight, 81, who died last winter.

Searight willed Trixie the $1,000 and provided that she consume it at the rate of 75 cents a day.

Then the question arose as to whether the fox terrier owed the state an inheritance tax.

Wayne county probate Judge Myron T. Benneman, after months of study, ruled that Trixie is of no taxable value to her new owner and is not subject to an inheritance tax.

Their application to the commissioners said the initial payment would be $833, and that the balance will be paid over a three-year period.

Penney Story Related By Magazine

The J. C. Penney store on Park avenue west in Mansfield is one of 1,602 stores in the same chain scattered throughout the 48 states in big cities and towns as small as 1,000 in population.

Details of the Penney company's amazing growth from a single store opened in the mining town of Kemmerer, Wyoming, in 1901 are told in an article in the August issue of Coronet magazine. J. C. Penney managed the store and was a partner in the venture. He soon was able to acquire full ownership.

At the very beginning of his expansion, Penney adopted what amounted to a profit-sharing system, the article explains. Partners were added to open new sotres after they had been thoroughly trained. Later, the firm was incorporated, but store managers and executives still share in the profits.

A unique feature of the Penney stores is that they do not have "sales." All stores operate strictly on a cash and carry basis.

Ecuador Faces Problem of Housing 100,000 Quake Victims

U. S. Rushes Canned Food To Stricken

Money Showers On Spread Flags

By JORGE MANTILLA

QUITO, Ecuador — (AP) — The government faced the problem today of housing 100 000 persons made homeless by Friday's earthquake which gutted 50 communities and caused thousands of deaths

A spokesman for President Galo Plaza Lasso said the government had not yet been able to compile a death list, but estimated that the toll might not exceed between 2,000 and 4,000. Previous estimates ranged up to 6,000

The president announced Sunday that in the town of Pelileo alone some 3 200 had perished

Plaza told newsmen that in the ravaged city of Ambato 75 per cent of the houses still standing must be torn down.

He said the government had asked the American republics to rush tents to the area and that the United States already was sending emergency shipments of canned foods

Plaza said his previous estimate of $20.000,000 property damage might go much higher

Most of the victims in the town of Pelileo were caught in buildings that collapsed Landslides from the mountains accounted for others

Farmhouses were flattened against the ground and fields were ripped apart by huge crevices

Many other Pelileo victims died in a flood A landslide blocked a drainage canal and the waters trapped many persons Others died in their homes Not a single house in the village remained standing.

Tungurahua province, hardest hit region in the area, was declared a security zone under military law

The council of state granted the president extraordinary power to cope with the situation. He was given the right to take funds already allotted for other purposes and use them for disaster relief.

Citizens showered money, clothing and other articles onto huge Ecuadorean flags spread out to catch the gifts

Ambato struggled to get back to a normal pace The regular weekly fair took place as usual yesterday. Peasants brought their fruits and vegetables to the open air market

An emerbency airlift is bringing supplies into the stricken areas and hauling out injured to cities where hospital facilities are available.

Mother, Widow Each Want Money

Two Women Fight Over GI's Insurance

MONTEREY, Calif. — (AP) — Mrs, Maureen Stam declares her former mother-in-law got what was coming to her when she went to jail rather than sign over GI insurance money to her

The 32 year-old woman said she was going back to Salt Lake City—but she definitely had no intention of seeing Mrs Nettie W Capps in or out of jail there

Mrs Capps drew a 30-day sentence for ignoring a court order She refused to transfer to a trust fund allotments from an insurance policy of her son and Mrs Stam's first husband, Jacob L Capps He was killed in the Battle of the Bulge.

Meanwhile in Salt Lake City Gov J Bracken Lee's office asked the Utah attorney general for an opinion as to the governor's authority to intervene in the five-year-old case

Lee's office said the request was prompted by a growing avalanche of mail and telegrams from all parts of the nation, all "in serious vein and protesting against the sentence"

Attorney General Clinton D. Vernon declined comment

Mrs Stam, twice married Burned by the explision and since she divorced Capps, said she agreed at the time any benefits from Capps' insurance policy should go into a trust fund for their three children. Later, however, she figured it was the children's money and she needed it for their support

She will continue to fight to get the $50 80 a month policy payments, the auburn-haired, dark-eyed woman told interviewers at her nearby seaside home. Meantime, she wants to return to her former home in Salt Lake City because "I am sick and tired of California"

Mrs Stam remarried after divorcing her second husband Her present husband, army recruit Daniel Stam, is currently facing charges at Fort Ord of being absent without leave Mrs Stam said she would not wait for his court martial verdict

She wants to get away as soon as possible, she said, because she has been having a hard time financially.

JAIL GOLD STAR MOTHER— Mrs Nettie Capps, gold star mother who is serving a 30-day contempt of court sentence sits calmly in a Salt Lake City jail while a storm of protest rages because of her imprisonment She refused to comply with a court order to transfer her war dead son's insurance trust funds to his former wife for support of their children The son was killed shortly after divorced from his wife. The former daughter-in-law now remarried, said that Mrs Capps "got what was coming to her"

Sentenced For Slaying

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia — (UP) — Dr Robert C Rutledge, jr., was sentenced today to 70 years in prison for the slaying of his wife's seducer

The 28-year-old St. Louis pediatrician stood with his head slightly bowed as district judge J. E. Heiserman sentenced him to hard labor at Fort Madison state penitentiary.

Heiserman rejected both the state's recommendation of the maximum life sentence and the defense plea for a 10-year term, the minimum permissible on Rutledge's conviction of second degree murder in the Cedar Rapids hotel room slaying of Byron Hattman

Heiserman said he thought the sentence "should be severe" but he rejected a life term "considering the education and highly specialized training of the defendant"

"This seems like an especially proper case for the board of parole to have jurisdiction from the beginning," the judge said. "The court does not believe the defendant is a hardened habitual criminal"

Looking directly at the tall, pale doctor, Heiserman said

"This court feels sorry for you, as it would feel sorry for any talented, professional young man who finds himself in this terrible situation That is not condoning your act"

Heiserman said he also felt sorry for Rutledge's father, Dr. Robert C. Rutledge, sr., Houston, Tex., "from whom I had a pathetic letter recently."

The senior Rutledge has announced he will carry an appeal to the state Supreme Court from Heiserman's refusal last week to grant his son a new trial.

Seeking $61,811 In Livestock Deals

BUCYRUS — Three more civil actions for money, asking judgments totaling $61,811, have been filed in Common Pleas court here against the estate of the late J. E. "Bud" Faulkner, wealthy livestock dealer who died here last January.

The three newest actions bring a total of eight suits filed here against the Faulkner estate as a result of livestock dealings of Mr. Faulkner and his partner, H. E. Sherk, who has been named defendant in six lawsuits in federal court in Cleveland.

The third action has been filed by the Second National Bank of Bucyrus against Mr. Palce, asks $13,187 for payment of checks, which the estate has refused to honor, the petition states.

The five other suits pending here against the Faulkner estate seek judgments totaling $61,035.

The Scouts Wednesday plan to hike to Pt. Pelee, the southernmost point in Ontario. In the afternoon the troop will again board the lake vessel for the return trip to Sandusky and home.

It is be the 12th consecutive year Scoutmaster Koch has taken his troop to Canada. He reports the trip always is a big treat for the boys. He conceived the idea after a ride across the lake himself several years ago.

The Scouts had the benefit of home cooking while at camp as four Scout mothers went along to preside over the kitchen. They are Mrs. Ed Koch, wife of the scoutmaster, Mrs. Pearl Rotharr, Mrs. Helen Bogart, and Mrs. Arthur Ryland.

The Scouts motored to Sandusky in six autos driven by parents, including beside Scoutmaster Koch, Dr. R. L. Solt, Arthur Ryland, Roy Cotsamire, and A. B. Mowry.

Dies, Leaves Dog $1,000

WOOSTER — (AP) — An eight-year-old named Trixie has inherited $1,000. And she doesn't have to pay inheritance taxes.

Why? Because Trixie — the lucky dog — is a fox terrier.

But Trixie can't go on a big spree and spend the money for dog biscuits all at once. She is allowed 75 cents a day.

Trixie was the pet of the late George Searight. When the 81-year-old man died last November, he left her a life interest in the money.

When Trixie dies, the money goes to five relatives and friends of Searight.

Car Misses Road, Dives Into House

SPRINGFIELD — (AP) — An automobile plunged over an embankment on a dirt road here yesterday and embedded itself in house. The car narrowly missed a 16-year-old girl who was in her bedroom in the house.

Sheriff's deputies reported the car was driven by Glen Ellwood Howard of Bellefontaine. He told deputies he was trying to turn around on the road. Instead, the deputies said, the car slipped off the road and crashed into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joshua A. Nickell.

Toward Better Understanding

ONE of the greatest needs in the world today is understanding. Understanding between nations, between neighbors and between ourselves and those with whom we work, play and transact business unquestionably is one way in which we can help increase the enjoyment and the fullness of our life.

Hence we believe it is highly commendable that a large group of Mansfield retail businessmen have joined forces in a co-operative effort toward better understanding with their customers.

Yesterday, the group presented the first in a series of advertisements in The News-Journal, designed to take the consumers into the confidence of the merchants, to explain problems and to reveal the many things that the retail businessmen of this community do to help provide convenience, comfort and prosperity.

Unquestionably the retailers—and this includes the corner filling station as well as the largest department stores—have contributed a great deal to what Americans have that the rest of the world envies—the American standard of living.

Few shoppers, perhaps, realize that the retailer is in effect the purchasing agent for the consumer. His knowledge of the needs and desires of his customers is a big factor in the degree of satisfaction he can render to them. This of course, puts the Mansfield businessman in a better position than anyone else to serve the people of this locality.

Careful reading of the co-operative messages as presented by Mansfield retailers will be well worth the time of anyone in the Mansfield trading territory. It will add to our understanding and perhaps increase our respect for many persons and things which ordinarily we take for granted.

When Loneliness Is Troublesome

PASSING of the G. A. R., made up of survivors of Union soldiers in the Civil war, brings recollections of the enjoyable comradeship of members of this group as they met in their club rooms in the Memorial building and chatted about matters of common interest.

They thus escaped the loneliness that so often attaches to the twilight years of life when many older people feel the lack of congenial associations.

Around twenty years ago what was known as the Richland County Autumn Society carried through a brief existence as a group of persons who had passed the age of seventy—with a view to extending acquaintanceship among those who could "remember when—".

But, one by one, its promoters reached the end of the road, and, as with the Richland County Lincoln Society, had no enthusiastic successors.

What is commonly known as "old age" has been substantially advanced in recent years, and it seems noteworthy that Thomas J. Hanley, having recently passed the age of ninety, expresses interest in learning of others in Mansfield and vicinity who are in that age bracket.

Possibly here are the makings of another Autumn Society, with membership qualification advanced to at least the age of eighty—for there are those who are inclined to extend their idea of "middle-age" to seventy, or beyond.

B-B Guns Dangerous 'Playthings'

INJURY of a small boy who was struck by pellets from a B-B gun serves to direct attention to the large number of these dangerous "playthings" that Mansfield parents permit their children to have.

The nuisance and danger of allowing young children to go about in their various neighborhoods with B-B guns—shooting birds and, sometimes, injuring a playmate— is not confined to any particular section of the city, as complaints are as frequent from the Woodland area as any other.

This, surely, should be a matter of parental control rather than for policing—although a call to the police department in cases of impudence or insolence on the part of youthful culprits would be quite proper procedure.

Politics Attracting More Women

LITTLE by little, women are getting firmer footholds in politics. The recent appointments of Mrs. Perle Mesta as minister to Luxembourg and Mrs. Georgia Neese Clark as treasurer of the United States are followed by the designation of Mrs. Edna F. Kelly as the Democratic candidate for Congress in the Tenth district of Brooklyn. While there are a few women in Congress, other selections of women to run for Congress have often been purely complimentary, the forlorn choices of minority parties. The Tenth district has been Democratic for years.

Congress has had leading women members, such as Mrs. Mary Norton of Jersey City, for many years chairman of the House labor committee, and Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine. The number has, however, been surprisingly small. Mrs. Kelly will, if elected, be only the second woman to serve in Congress from New York state. Mrs. Caroline O'Day was a congresswoman-at-large in the early days of the New Deal.

Students at the University of Akron are irked by shortage of parking space for their cars while they are attending classes—and the hardships involved in gaining higher education are sometimes almost unbearable.

Claude Cockburn speaks frankly: "We people want something for nothing and we will vote for the man who promises us the biggest pensions and the least work."

Now comes word that Bibles are being handled on the black market in Japan—an item of which it had been thought that supply always equaled demand.

What Some Other People Are Saying

HOUSE MINORITY LEADER MARTIN (R Mass.): "Only men of little vision can believe that we can save Europe with economic and military aid on one hand while on the other hand we sever Europe's economic lifelines by virtually abandoning to the communists Europe's sources of supplies in Asia."

* * *

THOMAS B. McCABE, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board: "Risk taking had long been an American tradition. It resulted in the rapid expansion of our resources, expanding production, and a steadily rising standard of living."

* * *

SENATOR CLAUDE PEPPER (D-Fla.): "We cannot put our faith entirely in a precarious balance of power and the armaments race on which such balance always depends. We will only be able to lift the burden of arms preparations when we develop the United Nations into a federation that is capable of maintaining peace."

Where There's Smoke—

Raymond Moley's Analysis

Extension of Welfare State Projected

TUCKED AWAY in the Senate bill that proposes to set up a totalitarian Columbia Valley Administration is a section that may well be the handiwork of David Lilienthal or one of his own special bent of mind. He was, of course, the boss of the TVA, which provided the inspiration for this vastly more authoritarian scheme for the Northwest.

The provision says, "The doctrine of beneficial consumptive use of water shall be recognized, and in the event of any conflict between the purposes for which the waters of the region may be used, preference shall be given to atomic energy requirements for national defense and to domestic requirements for national defend and mining and industrial purposes."

Why the latter purposes should be repeated in this way is not clear, since they are the original and professed purposes of the whole scheme.

Perhaps a clever bill-writer put them in to indicate an order of priority which a friendly Supreme Court can use if the occasion requires it. Perhaps it is to take the edge off the implication that the real purpose is to shroud in the mysteries of the atomic energy project any suggestion that the rulers of the CVA shall not have paramount power.

* * *

More Regimentation.

IT SHOWS, however, how the architects of the welfare state use more than one justification for their purposes of control. If the vague term "general welfare" fails, they fall back upon national defense, and finally upon the misty atmosphere of atomic energy.

All this may suggest that the real impact of atomic energy may fall not upon the cities and armies of Russia, but upon the remains of freedom in the United States. For if the Russian threat can be kept alive, our activities in developing atomic energy can be so controlled as to provide a perfect bureaucratic means of regimenting our life when that source of power is ready to use for domestic and civilian purposes.

It is clear that when atomic energy has been developed for non-military uses it may well rank with or supplant power from water and coal. We have already seen how utterly monopolistic power over coal, through John L. Lewis, can make presidents and congresses dance to its tunes.

The government's projects in water power, especially this plan for a CVA, can regiment vast sections of the country. Control of atomic energy can do it better and with more bureaucratic secrecy.

Ultimately, therefore, atomic energy will be, if present purposes are carried out, the means for an over-all regimentation not only of our business life but of all life. We all will be the first conquests of the atom.

Frankly Speaking

Growth of the Nation

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — Two years ago the Twentieth Century Fund published an 812-page book, "America's Needs and Resources," a valuable study of this country's growth.

The essential facts in that larger book now have been boiled down into 101 pages in "U. S. A., Measure of a Nation" with easy-to-read text and picture charts.

It goes back a hundred years to show the growth of America and projects the American picture to 1960 to indicate where we're going.

In their foreward the authors—Thomas R. Carskadon and Rudolf Modley—say:

"When we . . take a long look behind, the minor ups and downs flatten out in a rising curve of economic activity, of increasing productive power, unique in the annals of this world.

"It is deeply impressive. And when we project this curve into the future, assuming that we can continue to act as we have in the past, we begin to realize America's vast economic and social potential."

The first drawings on page one begin to tell the story. In 1850 there were about 7½ million workers here. Now close to 60 million.

And from 12 hours a day for 6 days a week the average work-week shrank to 43 hours in 1940, with the work-week expected to be shorter in the future.

* * *

Great Changes Noted.

SAY the authors: "The measure of our whole past achievements, as well as our future prospects lie in one vital factor—productivity, or output per man-hour of work—an average hour's work in 1850 produced only one-fifth in goods and services of what it produces today.

"Producing more goods and services per hour of work makes our progress possible. This gives us more output to divide up. It can be distributed in the form of higher wages to workers, lower prices to consumers, more money plowed back into the business itself, or greater yield to owners and managers.

"Back in 1850 machines supplied only a tiny 6 per cent of the power used in doing the country's work. The big contribution was animal power—horses, oxen, and mules; human sweat and muscle furnished most of the rest."

The authors point out that the great growth in this country came after the Civil war.

The population here was 133 million in 1940, it's about 147 million now, and should be around 155 million in 1960, the authors figure. But—

Our birthrate has been going down. But so has the death rate, and that offsets the lower birthrate a bit.

One thing to remember is this: "In the first 10 years of the present century, our population increased more from immigrants than from our own birth. Since 1930 immigration has all but ceased.

Every page in the book is worth reading and thinking over. It's a good book.

Looking Back

Twenty Years Ago Today

Friday, August 9, 1929

Mack Braden, 50, of Olivesburg, was killed by overturning of truck he was driving.

Hopes were revived for new union depot in Mansfield.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McNew, 18 Claremont avenue; a son to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dillon, 26 St. Clair street.

Miss Ruth Alexander was taken from General hospital to her home, 194 Park avenue east, following appendicitis operation.

Showing made by Miss Elizabeth Woltmann in Lorain golf match won favorable comment.

Mrs. G. F. Bishop, West Fourth street road, was surprised by friends on birthday anniversary.

A. D. Rinehart underwent operation at General hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Wentland left on motor trip to New York and Canada.

Dave Boone Says:

MARRIAGE is a durable institution and a sacrament, but it continues to get kicked around in Hollywood. Now it's Ingrid Bergman, most of whose pictures have been linked up with things of faith and lasting devotion, who has announced she's had enough of a marriage that had been considered one of moviedom's happiest.

* * *

Ingrid says she will quit pictures upon finishing "After the Storm," the picture which brought her into association with Roberto Rossellini, the Italian director. There seem to have been more storm signals in that one than were called for in the script.

* * *

Ingrid filmed part of that picture with Rossellini at Stromboli, the volcanic isle. It'll seem relatively comfortable in a nice cool divorce court.

* * *

Her husband is in California with their 10-year-old child who must react a little queerly to this question. "Do you like movies?"

Overseas Tour For U. S. Negro Actors

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — A theatrical company of American Negroes will tour the Scandinavian countries next month to offset Paul Robeson's communist-sponsored barnstorming.

The Negro players will present Henrik Ibsen's "The Wild Duck" in Denmark, Sweden and Norway, and thus demonstrate that all American Negroes aren't downtrodden, but can attain the same educational and cultural heights as other Americans.

This good - will tour was arranged by the Norwegian embassy and Howard University of Washington, D. C., without any prompting from the state department. Twenty-one students and three instructors from Howard University's drama department will make the trip, most of the expenses being paid by Blevins Davis, American philanthropist, who also brought an American company to Denmark to play "Hamlet."

The idea of sending Negro players to Scandinavia was suggested by Ivan Jacobsen, staff member of the Norwegian embassy, after he happened to see the Howard University drama department in action. He felt that Paul Robeson had not painted a true picture of the American Negroes, and so on his own initiative promoted the tour as a gesture of people - to - people friendship.

Prediction: This will do almost as much good as some phases of the North Atlantic Pact.

In Senate Restaurant.

SENATOR Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, newly appointed attorney general, finished lunch and called for his check. The waiter brought it. This was the first day the new District of Columbia sales tax went into effect.

"The tax should be three cents, not two," the senator advised the waiter. "You've undercharged me."

Since Senator McGrath wrote the sales-tax law for the District of Columbia, the waiter didn't argue. The man who, as attorney general, will be responsible for enforcing the law, handed him the extra penny.

* * *

The Amazing Maragon.

SAM BOYKIN, head of the state department's gumshoe department and cousin of Alabama's Congressman "Everything's for love" Boykin, is very secretive about it, but he is hushing up another strange chapter in the strange life of John Maragon.

Though the state department won't talk, Maragon was mixed up in a deal to buy all the surplus U.S. Army vehicles in Germany —about 7,000 trucks, trailers and jeeps. The price was $1,250,000 and the sale was consummated Jan. 31, 1948, to a Belgian scrap dealer.

Maragon was representing a Britisher, George Dawson, who has a criminal record, and for whom he had also done some work in Washington with the war assets administration. Maragon's close contact in war assets has been Joe Major, a member of Truman's Battery D, and an intimate of General Vaughan's.

Major recently flew with the President to Little Rock for their battery's reunion. He also states that he has received about 500 phone calls from Vaughan, visits at his home about once a week, and got to know Maragon through Vaughan.

Arriving in Paris in the winter of 1948, the amazing Maragon presented letters of introduction to Gen. Clyde Hyssong, in charge of war surplus for the state department, and then proceeded to charge the general with giving unwarranted information to Jack Van Allen, a rival of Maragon's who also represented Dawson.

In the end, the state department had to send a special investigator across the Atlantic to straighten out the row.

In the end, also, Dawson and Maragon did not get the 7,000 surplus vehicles, though they did get about 700 army motorcycles after a heated row over the price.

* * *

Expect Egg Surplus.

AGRICULTURE Secretary Charlie Brannan isn't taking the House defeat of his farm program lying down. The scrappy cabinet member has a surprise punch about ready to toss at his congressional foes.

Brannan has been quietly preparing a report for Congress showing that continuation of current price supports, which the House approved under pressure from the American Farm Bureau Federation, would cost the government fantastic sums.

The report will reveal that 90 per cent of parity supports on eggs alone will cost over $150,000,000 in 1950 if the present House bill becomes law. This estimate is based on big increases in laying flocks, which will dump a surplus of more than 10,000,000 cases of eggs on the market next year.

Another contributing factor to the anticipated egg surplus is the sharp reduction in purchases of dried eggs by the British, who bought large quantities during the war, but have since cut down on U. S. egg imports to such an extent that the market may be lost entirely next year.

New Angle To Old Game

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON — There's a new angle in the much-discussed business of the five percenters.

Those, you know, are the slick fellows who offer to get you a military contract in the defense program on a commission basis. They claim to know the right "insiders," and throw names about, and sport pictures of high-up officials on their office walls.

This racket is as old as war, itself. The Greeks had a name for it, and so did the Romans and the Babylonians and Assyrians and Egyptians and the Medes and Persians. War is a profitable, if bloody, business.

Well, the new angle has to do with little businessmen who are protesting that they can't get any contracts because the big fellows are getting them all. Two of them with this complaint called Senator Humphrey (D., Minn.) and told him the only way they seem to get any contracts is to hire a five percenter to work for them here. They said it very frankly.

The senator says both these little businessmen in Minnesota have modern and efficient plants and can handle business for the government. He says he has received hundreds of letters from small businessmen in his state and other parts of the country with the same complaint. They ask him to do something about it.

He has. He wrote a letter to Secretary of Defense Louis A. Johnson asking for a statement of just what the procurement policy of the military establishment is, with a threat that he'll get a congressional investigation if some attention isn't paid to the little fellows.

"The same government which is investigating the five percenters is the same government which by its policies of procurement makes these abuses possible," he exploded to this reporter just after dispatching his epistle to the secretary of defense. "If a small company doesn't have a representative here who doesn't know 'who' instead of 'how?'" It finds it difficult to share in any government purchasing or government contracts.

"This isn't any endorsement of the five percenters. I'm opposed to them. But it's time we found out why we have a policy that encourages this racket. If the federal government is going to investigate these abuses, it might as well investigate what causes them at the same time.

"There's lost of talk around here about stopping monopoly. Well, you've got it in the government contract field. The big boys are getting all the contracts. Small business should get its share."

* * *

Find War Profitable.

THE SENATOR is right, of course. There's nothing new in the situation or in the complaint. It all happened in the last war. Finally, the little fellows shouted loudly and an agency was set up to try to see that small business got some of the spoils in the way of war contracts. Some of that was by sub-contract controlled by the big companies. The big boys got the bulk of the business.

Not only that, but when the war was over they gobbled up plants built by the government because they had the price—and often at bargain rates—and gobbled up smaller business.

They came out of the war bigger than ever. This is a matter of record. Monopoly increased. That monopoly is more powerful than ever. Its growth was a fruit of the war.

Pernicious, indeed, is the reliance upon a military program. The generals and the admirals still sit in the seats of power. To get their program through Congress, a crisis atmosphere is created; generals are flown post-haste to Europe, and Russia is proclaimed an aggressor by the President of the United States.

Isn't there any other way to go about keeping the peace?

Throwing Your Weight

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I LIKE that slang phrase—"Stop throwing your weight around." It expresses a certain condition far better than any highbrow dictionary word. It expresses an obnoxious attitude exactly.

Stop throwing your weight around. Stop trying to shove your power or your pull or your money or your beauty down the Other Fellow's throat.

So you're pretty? You don't deserve any credit for that. Your family tree gave you those features and that complexion. And a lot of showing off won't help them any, sister.

So you're smart? Your family tree deserves a lot of credit for that too. Of course if you've come up the hard way, that smartness is a credit to you. But if you're wise you won't show it.

The wisest people are the simplest and the humblest. They know how much they don't know—and that is the height of wisdom. They know the subject on which they are dumb and that is the most ingratiating of all charms.

Stop throwing your weight around. If you have any real weight — any weight that you have made by yourself—you won't need to throw it around. It will be perceptible in your very presence. You won't need to crow about it. You won't need to shove it at the other fellow. It will be an invisible force and the whole world will recognize it.

Stop throwing your weight around. Stop publicizing your own virtues. If you have any virtues they'll publicize themselves. If you've made a record, it will be obvious without your aid. No real man needs a press agent to advertise his work.

Lincoln, that great American, still sits in bronze humility as he did in life. No man thought less of himself than Lincoln did. No man was more frustrated or fearful of his own decisions. No man did less to throw his weight around except in kindliness and faith in his fellow man.

Now tourists from the North and the South alike stand before his statue with tears in their eyes. He walked the common way—he knew the common touch. He was just an ordinary guy who did the right thing as he saw it.

If you do that you will reach the heights and the depths of your own destiny.

Allergy Affects Millions

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ALLERGY or hypersensitivity is rapidly becoming one of today's foremost medical problems. It is estimated that in the United States alone there are between 14 and 20 million people who suffer from one or another of its varied forms—hay fever, asthma, hives or excruciating migrane headaches.

Though allergy has its roots in individual make-up, doctors believe that there are certain vulnerable periods in life when it is more likely to develop than at other times.

If these periods can be guarded against, allergy may never develop even though the individual has a predisposition toward it.

Can Start Before Birth.

It has been stated that allergies can start in a baby even before birth, because of foods which the expectant mother includes in her diet. Thus it is important for mothers to avoid over-indulgence in any one particular food and to employ a well-balanced diet.

During infancy or during illness, the development of allergy may occur because of undue exposure to substances which commonly produce oversensitivity, such as feather pillows or stuffed toys.

There would appear to be some tendency for allergy to run in families.

Contact with animals, such as cats or dogs, may sometimes be responsible for allergic symptoms.

While it is true that in some cases allergy becomes less severe as the child grows older, in the majority of instances this does not occur.

There are a number of drugs available, known as anti-histamines, which are helpful in the treatment of allergies.

Allergy should never be neglected, since with proper treatment it often can be eliminated or, at least, relief from the symptoms can be obtained.

MARY ALICE M'FARLAND WED TO THEODORE BARR

Nuptial Vows Exchanged Sunday in Double Ring Service at the Caesarea Christian Church

MISS MARY ALICE M'FARLAND, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl McFarland, R. D. 5, became the bride of Theodore L. Barr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewie Barr of Lucas, Sunday, in an open church ceremony at Caesarea Christian church.

Rev. J. W. Mellick officiated for the double ring service which began at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Ira Donough presided at the organ while Mrs. Joan Adams served as soloist.

The couple repeated their vows before an archway and fence of huckleberry and red and pink roses backed by palms and ferns.

The bride's father escorted her to the altar. Her gown was fashioned of stiffly starched dotted swiss. The gown had a V-neckline and nylon ruffles on the sleeves. Her bodice was set off by ruffles around the yoke and tight fitting waist. A medium train completed the gown. She carried white asters and stephanotis with an inserted corsage of red rose buds in a modernistic arrangement.

The bridegroom's sister, Miss Maxine Barr, of Lucas, served as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were friends of the bride, Miss Norma Hammett and Miss Barbara Keefer, both of Mansfield.

The attendants' gowns were made of the same material as the bride's, fashioned with cap sleeves and mitts. They wore sweetheart bonnets of matching material.

The maid of honor was attired in pink while the bridesmaids wore green and yellow gowns. They carried colonial arrangements of pastel shaded pompons, roses and asters.

Mrs. McFarland chose a two piece aqua dress with white accessories and a yellow rose corsage, to wear at her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Barr's mother chose a grey print summer sheer dress with white accessories and a red rosebud corsage.

Russell Barr, the bridegroom's brother, served as best man. Another brother, Kenneth Barr of Lucas and an uncle, Dave Barr, of Mansfield, escorted guests to their pews.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception for 200 guests was held in the church parlors. A four tiered cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, centered the bridal table. The parlors were decorated with two baskets of gladioli in lavender and white.

For her wedding trip to an undisclosed destination Mrs. Barr wore a white suit with white accessories and a red rose corsage from her bridal bouquet. After September 1 the couple will reside in Greenville, S. C.

The bride is a graduate of Bob Jones university in Greenville and of Madison high school. Mr. Barr, a graduate of Lucas high school is now attending Bob Jones university.

Guests were present for the wedding from Detroit, Mich., California and Massachusetts.

Beauty Authority Tells of Exercise

Here's good news for those of you who hate to exercise. A leading beauty authority says the most strenuous exercise doesn't necessarily do your figure the most good. Taking off those extra pounds can be easy if you add a few bars of music and a lively imagination says Hazel Rawson Cades. The music helps you relax says the beauty editor, and by "acting out" the exercise you stimulate your imagination as well as your circulation. Here are a couple of examples of the music-imagination-school of exercise. To reduce the waistline, try thinking of yourself as a champagne glass.

Here's Lift To Wilted Spirits

To lift wilted spirits on a sultry day, and give renewed energy, a cola drink is just the thing. Served ice cold, it is a recognized favorite among beverages. The housewife who has large bottles of cola on hand is never at a loss for a cool refresher to serve at any time.

The large bottle serves five and is best to use when friends drop in, when the younger crowd get together for a platter session, or when the family gathers on the porch to relax and cool off. The small bottles, kept cool in the refrigerator, are fine for the individual drink at all times.

Just as it comes from the bottle, cola is a zesty drink. It combines well with ginger ale, or carbonated fruit-flavored beverages. A teaspoon of fresh lime juice added to each glass of cola makes a refreshing drink. For variety, add a dash of orange bitters to each glass.

Here is a party drink that will serve 10.

COLA PARTY PUNCH

1 large bottle pale dry ginger ale

Her flowers were white roses and glads.

The bride's only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

Robert B. Keith of this city served his brother as best man. Ushers were William Levison, Russel Humbert, both of Mansfield and Elton Schibley of Amherst.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for 150 in the church parlors. The serving table was centered with a four tiered wedding cake and arrangements of vari-colored glads.

For traveling on their honeymoon trip the bride chose a navy print sheer suit with white handmade handkerchief given to her by her cousin, Mrs. Judy Baumhardt.

The bride was graduated from Amherst high school and Baldwin-Wallace College. Dorothy Kilgallen

VOICE OF BROADWAY

(Dorothy Kilgallen is on vacation. Her guest columnist today is the famous tenor whom Bing Crosby affectionately calls "the oldest choir boy in the world"—Morton Downey.)

MY FRIEND SHERM

From the literary grapevine I've just learned that mine host Sherman Billingsley has penned a piece about me for the September issue of Cosmopolitan. Thanks to you, dear Dorothy, I can now not only return the compliment to Sherm but what's even better, get my licks in first.

When I sat down to set my thoughts about Sherm on paper, I was sure it would be a cinch. But for once, I've lost my Irish wit and my usual flow of blarney has changed into something soft and really sentimental.

The reason why? Because I've now realized that in all the months and years I've been patronizing the Stork Club, watching and talking to the parade of people who pass by Table 50—from Supreme Court Justice Bill Douglas to the Duke of Windsor—the one guy who has really always drawn me back night after night was none other than that hick from Enid, Okla., Sherman Billingsley.

• • •

The chic glamour and glitter that Sherm has manufactured for the world to enjoy hasn't one whit dulled his keen interest in people, whether it's Lord Beaverbrook or Henry Fonda, Joe ennedy or John Jacob Astor, or Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jones from Atlanta. Though he's met thousands of celebrities, he still gets a genuine kick out of just saying hello to Sir Alexander Fleming or howdy to Winston Churchill or shouting a greeting to just plain folks like Walter Winchell and me.

And that naivete isn't superimposed, it's genuine 14 - karat grass-roots, and it shines just as bright today in the midst of all the Stork Club sophistication as it did 20 years ago when he was just a guy dabbling in real estate in the Bronx where we first met up with each other.

• • •

A stickler for detail, he's actually the hardest working member of the Stork Club staff, so he stays close to his base of operations. Sometimes on a nice day I can convince him to take a fast run out to his cabana at the Atlantic Beach Club, but when I do, he'll fret all the way out, call the Stork as soon as we arrive at our destination, and never relax even for a moment.

The only tome I've ever caught Sherm actually at peace with himself when he was off the premises was when I've seen him taking his five-year-old moppet, Shermane, for a stroll in Central Park.

• • •

You know, Sherm was the first guy to develop the give-away principle, and you don't have to know the answer to that $64 or any other question to rate a Stork Club gift. Billingsley will tell you he figured it was a smart business proposition to reinvest some of the profits in good will.

But I know better why he's such a lavish gift-giver. He's a natural born soft touch, what you might call a sucker for a sob story. For a guy who's been around so long, he's got the largest collection of bad checks in existence.

• • •

One of the reasons why he's such a successful host is because he wants people to enjoy themselves at the Stork, and, if a gift or a bottle of champagne will do the trick, he's ready to oblige.

One night last week, two elderly women came in with two debutant grandaughters. Sherman, in that quiet, almost invisible way he has of signaling, called the maitre d' and instructed him to bring two bottles of perfume over to that table. For whom were the bottles? Not for the pretty kids but for the grandmas!

And was that smart! Those two aging dowagers were as pleased as punch and on the way out, one of them paused in front of Sherman, kissed him on the cheek and whispered:

"I knew you took care of the young people here but I never knew you cared about us old folks."

Even though you may think I'm giving you the blarney now, I'm telling the whole truth when I say that that peck meant more to him than a kiss from a Hollywood glamour girl.

• • •

One of the pleasantest evenings I can remember at the Stork — an evening when Billingsley forgot details for once and just relaxes — was when Bing Crosby, Tommy Taylor, Billingsley, Steve Hannagan and myself sat around swapping stories — about our kids. Crosby told about his four, Tommy about his five, me about my brood of five, and Billingsley about his three: Jacqueline, now 21, Barbara, 13, and little Shermane.

Well, Hannagan, the bachelor, sat there more and more disgusted as we topped each other's stories and finally turned to the four of us as he got up to leave with:

"Now I understand why you guys have stopped talking about women, but you've got to have kids to do it."

Horoscope

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE
For Wednesday, August 10

While there are indications of major objectives or lofty ambitions holding promise, with initiative, sound judgment, and cooperation from influential sources to be counted upon, yet there may be delays, obstacles or temporary blocking of most desired goals, perhaps due to personal enmities, jealousy, or business competition. Or ill health could enforce postponements. However, patience could be a sustaining force to bridge over difficulties.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, may find that they may be able to cope with stagnations, delays or other obstructions by holding faithfully to major objectives or ambitions. In such confidence and persistent efforts the cooperation of those in high places may be counted upon. This is the reward for efficiency, worthwhile projects or propositions, held against enmity, jealousy or vindictive competition. Keep watchful, persistent in hopes, and so win the day. Also be watchful of health or other discouragements of personal nature.

A child born on this day, while possessing high ambitions, with excellent promise of eventual success, with assistance from high places, yet may have obstacles or frustrations to overcome.

Tells How To Collect Benefits

Blonston Says Many Losing Federal Funds

The general lack of knowledge of individual rights and the purpose of Social Security is costing many Mansfielders thousands of dollars each year, Edward B Blonston, manager of the Social Security office, believes

"In many cases unemployed persons over 65 do not apply for Social Security benefits because of the psychological effect that collecting old age insurance means peermanent retirement," Blonston said.

"We have had many cases of persons applying for old age insurance, who have been out of work for anywhere from five months to a year Even though they are 65 and thus eligible for Social Security benefits, they have delayed coming in because they thought they would go back to work soon after being laid off

"They don t seem to realize that they can draw old age insurance while they are unemployed When they do go back to work they can notify us and we will stop the payments of old age insurance benefits if they are working under Social Security"

The old age benefits are retroactive for only three months so if, as in the case of one man recently, the insured had been unemployed for eight months — then he loses five months' benefits Blonston said

"Unemployed persons over 65 can collect old age benefits and unemployment compensation at the same time" he said "An individual may be out of work for numerous reasons such as sickness, a strike, a material shortage or temporarily laid off and still collect old age insurance if he is over 65 The fact that the individual intends to go back to work should not stop him from collecting old age insurance"
